

FIFTY KILLED; MANY INJURED

Two Western Trains Meet On Curve In Head-End Collision This Morning.

FIFTEEN OF THE BODIES BURNED

Accident Occurs Near Pueblo, Colorado—Details Are As Yet Meagre—Snow Storm Hinders Work Of Rescuers.

(By Associated Press.)

Pueblo, Colo., March 16.—In a blinding snow storm trains No. 10, the Colorado and New Mexico express, eastbound, and No. 3, the Utah and California express, westbound, on the Denver and Rio Grande railroad, collided in a head-on collision near Portland, Colo., thirty miles west of Pueblo, at two o'clock this morning. It is reported that about forty persons were killed and many injured. Seventeen of the injured reached this city on a relief train and were taken to a hospital. It is stated that perhaps fifteen bodies were burned in a fire following the wreck. The trains met on a curve. The impact of the collision caused the two engines of one train, it being a double-header, the day coach and smoker to turn over. The cars took fire. They were crowded with passengers. The weather is bitterly cold and a heavy snow is falling, interfering with the rescue work.

LATER REPORTS—MORE DEAD

The number of dead is now estimated at fifty and upwards. The injured are placed at twenty-five. The cause of the wreck is attributed to the failure of delivering orders to No. 16, eastbound, so that No. 3 could pass. Those most injured were on No. 3, which was heavily loaded. No. 16 carried comparatively few passengers and these escaped generally with a slight shaking up. One man who escaped lost his father, mother, wife, three children, brother and two other relatives. The identified dead are: William Hollis, engineer; E. M. McPharland, Globe express messenger; Walter Causlet, engineer.

THE RAILROAD'S STATEMENT

Denver, Colo., March 16.—At the general offices of the Denver and Rio Grande road here the official statement was made that the number of persons killed by the collision at Adobe, Colo., this morning was not more than fifteen and that not more than twenty were injured.

REVISED LIST OF THE VICTIMS

Pueblo, Colo., March 16, 2 p. m.—In a noon extra edition of the Pueblo Chieftain it is announced that thirty-nine persons (two engineers, one fireman, an express messenger and thirty-five passengers) were killed in the Adobe wreck.

SIXTEEN DEAD

At noon it is positively known that sixteen persons were killed and thirty-four injured. But two of the dead have been identified. Just how many charred bodies are still in the wreck is not known, although the total death list is estimated at forty. But two passengers are known to have escaped from the smoker on train No. 3, every seat of which was occupied, and there were several persons standing in the aisle. When the first relief train arrived there was but little in the burned cars to indicate that there had been precious freight of human lives excepting the piles of charred floss and smoldering bodies. For nearly two and a half hours after the accident occurred half-nude men frantically tore at the burning timbers of the smashed coaches endeavoring vainly to extricate the maimed and dying people from an awful fate. The heat and smoke drove them back and they were unable to liberate a single person from the smoker of train No. 3. With other coaches the rescuers were more successful and they not only saved several of the injured from probable death, but were able to push back coaches that had not been attacked by the flames to places of safety.

BABCOCK'S RETIREMENT CAUSES CONSTERNATION

Wisconsin Representative Holds Position At Washington For Which But Few Are Qualified.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Washington, D. C., March 16.—The practical certainty that Representative Babcock, of Wisconsin, is to retire from the chairmanship of the republican congressional committee is causing much uneasiness among those republican members of the House who have been renominated or expect renomination. Two reasons for this concern exist. In the first place, the men who have been at the head of the committee for eight years—through four congressional campaigns—may naturally be supposed to know their business better than those who are without practical experience. The second reason is that the retirement of Chairman Babcock will mean also the retirement of Representative Overstreet, of Indiana, who has served as secretary of the committee for the past eight years. The leaders of the party, from President Roosevelt down, give these two men credit for wise and effective management of the congressional campaign for the past eight years. When they took hold they adopted entirely new methods and for the first time in the party's history the congressional committee was established as an organization entirely separate and distinct from the national committee.

LARGE PART OF SCALP TORN OFF

MILWAUKEE TRAVELING MAN IN RUNAWAY ACCIDENT.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Philip Doherty of Janesville, Was Also Thrown Out, But Was Scarcely Hurt.

In a runaway accident on the East Milwaukee street line shortly before noon today P. C. Johnson, a farm implement traveling man from Milwaukee, was thrown against a stone wall and sustained a terrible scalp wound which confines him to the Palmer hospital. He was riding with Philip Doherty, who has a machinery repair shop at the corner of Pleasant and South River streets, when the horse became frightened and started to run down Milwaukee avenue. The two men were unable to control the animal and as they came onto East Milwaukee street the rig tipped. The two occupants were thrown into the gutter and on the sidewalk along the R. M. Bostwick property. Mr. Johnson is a heavy man and was hurled violently against the stone wall, which lines the property where it is higher than the walk. Though somewhat dazed, Johnson did not lose consciousness and was able with assistance to reach the Park Hotel, where he is registered. From there he was taken to Dr. E. P. Woods' office. A hasty examination of the injuries was made and the physician decided that it would be impossible to properly dress the wounds and care for the man in any place beside the hospital. Thither he was taken. A portion of scalp three inches in circumference was torn off and the occipital artery, one of the largest in the head, was severed, from which blood flowed freely. In the back of the head another part of the scalp was torn loose from the skull, but not cut. Other bruises and scratches were received. Though hurt seriously Dr. Woods expects that the man will recover. Mr. Doherty was not hurt badly and needed no medical or surgical treatment.

HAMILTON HAS HIS OWN SIDE

Roasts The Insurance Board And Flays Them Most Unmercifully Before Legislature.

CALLED THEM "COWARDLY CURS"

Declares That Any Wrong That Has Been Done Does Not Rest Upon His Shoulders But With The Auditors.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Albany, March 16.—Andrew Hamilton Thursday proved himself as skilled a dramatic artist as he is an able lobbyist. No more sensational scene was ever witnessed in the state capitol than when he stalked into the assembly chamber and broke his self-imposed silence of months in an impassioned harangue, in which he denounced his former associates of the New York Life trustees as "cowardly curs," and hurled defiance and invective at the management of the company.

During this philippic five of the highest official representatives of the New York Life sat in a line spell-bound and astounded.

The burden of Hamilton's plea was that, if wrong had been done during the ten years he had obeyed the company's will, the burden of responsibility for that wrong must not rest upon him, not alone upon his dead friend, John A. McCall, but upon the members of the board who constituted the company's auditing committee, who, year after year, passed his vouchers unchallenged, or who, if they failed to pass upon them, were guilty of neglect of duty in not doing so.

More to Follow.

With an impressive lowering of his voice and ominous shake of his finger at one point in his attack, Hamilton looked straight toward where the New York Life contingent sat, agape with wonder, and then he warned his hearers that what he was saying today was to be only the first chapter of a volume; other chapters of which would follow in due season.

Eagerly listening to his every impassioned word were John C. McCall, secretary; Darwin P. Kingsley; Rufus W. Weeks and Thomas L. Buckner, vice presidents and trustees; and J. H. McIntosh, general solicitor of the New York Life.

Hamilton paid especial attention to one, unnamed, whom he described as "the Pecksniff of three administrations, the confidant of the Beers scandal and author of the Beers pension, who rotates through one administration and another, and thinks that he is going to be an indispensable member of yet another." When asked to night by a reporter if he referred to

William B. Hornblower in this connection, he replied: "You are a good guesser, young man."

Demands a Hearing.

Hamilton's plan to address the throng in the assembly chamber to attend the house hearing on the Armstrong bills was as well kept a secret as was his home-coming from Europe. Unexpected and unannounced, he dropped into the chamber at 5:15 o'clock, accompanied by a few personal friends. He did not seek a seat, but stood leaning against one of the great stone columns at the rear of the apartment. Soon he was recognized and surrounded by a throng of acquaintances, with whom he stood chatting.

Mr. McIntosh, the New York Life's general solicitor, at that moment was making a strong appeal that the company's management should not be arbitrarily legislated out of office on New York.

"I want to speak here-to-day myself," said Hamilton, "and I want to follow the present speaker."

Those who heard the former legislative agent thought at first that he was joking, but a moment later he sent down to Senator Armstrong a penciled request that he be permitted to speak next in favor of the bill calling for a clean sweep and a new election.

Request is Granted.

Senator Armstrong consulted hurriedly with some of his colleagues and with Samuel Undermyer and John De Witt Warner, who as counsel for various policy holders' organizations, had been scheduled as the next speakers. In an instant the word ran around the chamber that Hamilton had come there to make his public defense and to scourge his former colleagues. Young John C. McCall left his seat, walked around to where Hamilton stood and tried to dissuade him from his purpose. But other acquaintances were equally urgent in their demand that Hamilton insist on being heard.

Gently but firmly he waved Mr. McCall aside. "I have a duty to perform here," he said, "a duty to myself and to others, and I am going to perform it until they refuse to hear me." Just then the message came back to Hamilton that the Armstrong committee would be glad to hear him and would call upon him next.

CARL YATES STILL IN GOOD STANDING

Report That He Had Lost Place with Class of 1908 at Annapolis Was Erroneous

Dispatches sent out on Monday and published in at least one of the Milwaukee papers, announced that Cadet Carl M. Yates of Janesville, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Yates, was one of twenty-three students at the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, who had been transferred from the class of 1908 to 1909 on account of deficiencies in studies. Mr. and Mrs. Yates were at a loss to understand how this could be, inasmuch as the government reports received soon after the February examinations had shown that their son's standings were all above the passing mark by a considerable margin. In a letter from him received today, he says that through some as yet inexplicable error his name was printed in the list of delinquents in the Baltimore Herald. He assures them that this was a mistake, as their reports of his standings will show; and that he continues to be in good standing in the class of 1908.

MISCELLANEOUS EXPENSES?

Clerks Employed in Preparing and Mailing Help to Continue the Custom.(By William Wolff Smith.) Washington, D. C., March 13.— Special Correspondence.—The ridicule heaped by the press and public on the Congressional Free Seed Distribution has encouraged the majority of the House Committee on Agriculture to believe that their efforts to stop this great abuse will be successful and that the House will support their action in refusing to make any appropriation for the distribution of common flower and vegetable seeds. This graft dies hard. One of the most pernicious forms of wasting public money, without a legitimate excuse and almost without a defender, nevertheless it clings to congress like a mother to a new-born babe and for many years Chairman Wadsworth of the Committee on Agriculture, has been trying in vain to pry it loose.
The report of B. T. Galloway, chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry, for the fiscal year of 1905, tells the story of why the country is bled for $300,- 000 annually on this account. In it appears these items: "Salaries—Washington, $62,472; outside of Washington, $3,008; traveling expenses, $7,- 064; contract for assembling and mailing seeds, $41,924." A large number of persons are thus employed in the seed distribution and every time congress proposes to abolish this graft they weep copiously on the shirt-fronts of the tender-hearted members who finally shrug their shoulders and say "the public pays the freight" and vote for the appropriation.The report of Chief Galloway contains much valuable data on this subject, but a great deal is omitted and would undoubtedly make interesting reading. For instance, it notes that during the year there were "miscellaneous authorizations" amounting to $4,359 but no hint is given as to the character of these authorizations. It might be thought that less than a hundred thousand dollars worth of peas, beans, corn, etc., could be bought and distributed from Washington, yet it seems to have required $7,064 for "traveling expenses." Who traveled, where and why? It also appears that "miscellaneous seeds" to the amount of $6,490 and "miscellaneous plants" to the amount of $3,864 were purchased and distributed.Nothing could show the wastefulness of the seed distribution better than the cost of handling the seeds.
The total expenditure of the Department of Agriculture, on this account was $245,374. Of this amount only $90,979 was expended in the purchase of seeds, bulbs, trees and plants. In other words it cost $2.70 to distribute every dollar's worth of seeds, plants, bulbs and trees without counting the immense cost to the postoffice department for delivering them. The flowers and vegetable seeds are put up in packets. For these seeds $66,177 was expended, while to packet them and by machinery, and mail them, cost $41,924 or more than two-thirds what the seeds cost!But the item which most needs explanation is that of "miscellaneous expenses" which are set down at $15,- 961. After salaries, traveling expenses, purchase and mailing seeds, miscellaneous authorizations, telegrams, freight, express, hauling, gas and electric light, telephones and fuel had all been set down, it was still necessary to include $15,961 for "miscellaneous expenses."From the above it appears that although a contract was made under which $41,924 was paid for "assembling and mailing" $66,177 worth of vegetable and flower seeds, the government paid in addition $71,079 in salaries in and out of Washington; $7,064 traveling expenses, $4,359 "miscellaneous authorizations" and $15,- 961 "miscellaneous expenses." At the end of the distribution about 50,- 000 packets of seed were on hand in addition to which the department had in stock the enormous quantity of 168,691 pounds of various seeds.
As Professor Galloway recently testified before the House Committee on Agriculture that since the government did not carry seed over from one distribution to the next as it wished always to distribute fresh seed, the disposition of the 168,691 pounds of seeds left from the last distribution is a question of interest.In defining the position of the majority of the committee who voted to strike out the appropriation for "distributing seeds" the chairman of the committee said:"We are heartily in accord with the efforts of the department to introduce new or rare plants, grains, fruits or vegetables, and for that purpose have recommended an appropriation of $40,000 which is all they can comfortably expend in this work.
But when it comes to peas and beans and corn and turnips we feel the country is sufficiently well informed to get it alone without expending a quarter of a million dollars for this are calling on congress to put an end to this farce and a number of the State Granges, such as New York, Maryland, and others, have followed the lead of the National Grange, and have passed resolutions against the distribution.LAST PRIVATE SKATING

Thirty Couples—Imperial concluding private roller-skating party of the season at the West Side at these parties has diminished meas-urably during the winter season, but the interest among those who are not deterred by religious scruples shows no sign of waning. The Imperial band played last evening and

BIBLICAL LORE EXPLAINED

Solomon Never Travelled by Sea As Is Evidenced by His Advice to His People.Cleveland, Florida, March 10, 1906.
Editor of The Gazette:Mr. Bliss has asked me to give you an account of the trip to Cuba a few days ago made by some of our boarders. In these days when everybody travels, a fellow can scarcely hope to tell anything new or to see something that has escaped the eyes of others.On Tuesday morning at seven o'clock Mrs. W. T. Van Kirk, Mrs.
Jeffris and myself left for Tampa, where we arrived one hundred miles distant at noon of the same day, thus having opportunity for a leisurely survey of all the scrub palmetoes and sand on route and to wait for all the other trains in Florida. Time being the most common commodity in the state, people are naturally prodigal of it, and no well-regulated train ever thinks of getting in on schedule time.At Tampa we were joined by Mrs.
Van Kirk's son Frank and at midnight we left Havana for the Mascot, the same steamer that had carried Mrs. Nicholas Longworth and her husband on the preceding trip. Within an hour's time from sailing "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," "T'm a Rolling" and other equally suggestive songs were going through our heads and the boat continued to pitch and roll all through the night, while we sang with Tennyson: "Oh that my tongue could utter the thoughts that arise in me," not to mention the other things.As I lay in my wretchedness "like one forlorn" with "none so poor to do me reverence" or show any other kind of interest, I heard in the dark, coming from the neighboring perch of "my companion" in "distress," "Shakespeare declared makes the whole world kin. Strangely enough neither of us cared to claim the relationship and that too though we had sworn to 'cleave each to each till death do you part.' Here, now, is a contingency that the marriage ceremony has overlooked and I would respectfully call the attention of clergymen and justices of the peace to the oversight.Solomon said that a whisperer separate chief friends. He was a wise observer and his statement is doubtless true, but a whisperer has no monopoly of the separating business for sea-sickness accomplishes the same thing in less time. But then, the Israelites and Solomon naturally would not number sea-sickness in his repertoire. Again he said: "He that walk-eth uprightly, walketh surely." Never were words more untrue spoken, for I tried it the next morning and the insecurity of my footing gave the lie to every word of the statement and I can prove it by three others. Here is where Solomon fell down.As morning dawned and we lay a weary wreck, Frank Van Kirk tenderly called through our window: "Don't you want a cup of coffee with these rolls?" Luckily he was out of reach of missiles. He had just come from his mother's room, where he had heard her singing: "My sister Mary walks handies and a vertebra of some 'doorlike this" and on entering found her a confused heap in the middle of the room. In trying to sit down she had aimed for the chair, but on the way had sat on everything else but that and finally compromised by landing on the floor. As King Edward is traveling at present incognito as the Duke of Lancaster, we decided that Mrs.
Van Kirk should follow suit and so she was known as Sister Mary for the rest of the trip.A few hours' near evening at Key West gave us a breathing spell and we steamed into Havana harbor in the early dawn of Thursday. The long lines of electric lights looked like a necklace of diamonds and gave a wonderfully beautiful effect as we drew near. Inside the harbor one of the first things to catch the eye is the wreck of the Maine as it lies there raising its gaunt mass of black, rusty and twisted iron above the water's edge, a grim reminder of Spanish treachery.Havana itself is an interesting city and you can see, within a hundred miles of the states, sights as foreign as anything Europe affords. Spanish civilization is a persistent type or has been little touched by intercourse with the United States. Except for its electric street-cars, and they have a fine system, and its clean streets you would not know that Havana had ever heard of Uncle Sam. General Wood certainly gave them a good lesson in municipal house-cleaning, for the streets are as free from litter of any kind as a city could be. I am not so sure of the homes of the lower and common people. The streets for the most part are narrow and crooked, the one notable exception being the Prado. In these narrow streets the cars run close to the sidewalk, which in some cases is not more than a half yard wide and from the car window you can easily touch the buildings. This leaves barely room for vehicles to pass the cars. The living rooms of many of the people open immediately upon the sidewalk and as doors and windows alike are wide open you often have glimpses of things as they are. One unusual sight was the number of children scampering about in the home and in the street—children ten years old sometimes, but for the most part four or five—with not a shred of clothing on the traditional fig-leaf even being discarded.We made a visit to Morro castle, the frowning fortress at the entrance to Havana's land-locked harbor. Within it you are shown the dungeons in which the Spaniards confined prisoners until their death, in some cases shooting them and throwing their bodies down a chute into the sea, which is still shown, though now clogged with debris. Another form of execution was to fasten two men to a stake in one of these dungeons and then wall them in and leave them to starve to death. A visit to the cathedral was interesting, mainly as being the place where Columbus' ashes rested for many years till they were taken to Spain in '98 after the American occupation of the city.On Saturday afternoon we visited the Colon cemetery where Garcia is buried, and saw several burials. A curious custom prevails here of renting graves for a term of five years.
This is for those who cannot or do not care to purchase a lot and their number is legion. A rental of ten dollars is charged for five years and if at the expiration of that time the rent is not paid again the remains are exhumed and the bones thrown into a common bone-pit.We saw perhaps fifteen graves all ready for use, the head of one to the foot of the next. As we were looking at them we discovered by the side of one a half dozen coffin handles and a vertebra of some "doorYorick" who had been evicted and in the bottom of another several ribs and remnants of black cloth—"the increased of the grave" as I heard a darker preacher in Chattanooga call the remnants of the grave. While we were looking a hearse drawn by two horses, draw near accompanied by four men on foot. No women came to burials. As the hearse stopped the men came forward, lifted the plain coffin to their shoulders and deposited it upon the rests over the grave. It was lowered immediately, no outer box being used, and forthwith three stalwart negroes with long-handled hoes began to pull the dirt in and in less than five minutes, without a word of ceremony, all was over, the parties gone and the negroes sat down to wait for the next, which came in a few minutes. All burials are held between four and six o'clock p. m.The amount expended on a funeral indicated by the undertaker's display. In this second case the hearse which was highly gilded was drawn by four horses in black and yellow trappings, while the driver and the undertaker, who sat at his side, were resplendent in blazing red and yellow livery. The whole outfit had rather the appearance of a circus band wagon than of anything more serious.
This equipage was accompanied by about twenty well-dressed men. The same hurried burial was made, when each of the men came forward and shook hands with one who was evidently related to the deceased person and off they all fled.Curiosity led us with others to the bone-pit and there in confusion were thrown skulls, arms, ribs and legs—a gruesome sight and a ghastly testimony to the fact that a good many had been in arrears in their rent.Sunday afternoon a carnival was held and there wasn't enough of the fourth commandment left to hold a corner's inquest over. Everyone who owned a vehicle and all who could hire one were in the procession.
Men, women and children, gaily and gaudily dressed, many of them masked, throwing confetti and serpen-tinas, blowing horns and shouting, as they drove up and down the Prado and the Malecon, made a sort of Kaleidoscopic pandemonium that of several degrees removed from the American idea of Sunday. The day closed with numerous masquerade ballets to which it seemed that everybody went and five o'clock Monday morning brought the festivities to a close.The first part of the voyage home was a repetition of our experience on the trip over, the sea being so rough that even a Christian Scientist aboard was led to forswear her faith, declaring that she had "thrown the whole thing up." We reached Cleveland two hours behind time in a burring rain and had to walk down the main boulevard of the town to the hotel. We found everybody sound asleep and were convinced that there is no place like home even though that place for the time being be Cleveland.RACE FOR LIFE ON TREACHEROUS ICEJoe Prox Had Narrow Escape From Drowning in River Near Monterey Yesterday.Only nimble feet and a desperate fight for life saved Joe Prox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Prox, who reside at 251 Linn street, from drowning in the river near Monterey yesterday.
The youth was out on the ice field near the middle of the stream when his underfooting began to give way.
He turned and ran for shore, the treacherous frozen covering of the river cracking and breaking at nearly every step. As he neared the banks the thin ice gave way and let him down into four feet of chilly water.
His cries were heard by a younger brother who ran to secure help and a little sister who tried to do likewise plunged headlong into a barb-wire fence and cut her face so badly that the services of a physician were necessary. In the course of about half an hour the half frozen boy was removed from the water and taken to his home. It is not believed that he will suffer serious consequences from his mishap.ARTHUR P. BENNETT HURT AT MADISONHad His Right Hand Crushed Between Bumpers While Switching in St. Paul Yards.Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Bennett received a dispatch from Madison at 7:30 this morning stating that their son, Arthur P. Bennett, who has been switching nights in the St. Paul yards there for several weeks, had his right arm smashed and the arm injured while coupling cars some time after midnight. Mr. and Mrs.
Bennett left for the Capital City on the 10:30 train and will bring the young man home with them, if possible. About 8:30 o'clock a statement from the Gazette's special correspondent at Madison reached here.
It was to the effect that the switchman, while adjusting a lock-pin near the roundhouse at West Madison, got his right hand caught between the bumpers and sustained a severe injury between the thumb and index finger. Another switchman who saw the accident gave the signal to the engineer on the switch engine to pull ahead. After Bennett had his hand freed he walked to the lunch room in the passenger station. The pain in the hand became intense and he suffered considerably. He was removed to the city hospital in the ambulance and Dr. L. R. Head was called. Amputation will not be necessary.Self Water for Grease.
Cleveland, Ohio, March 16.—Fred Ives, a Columbia farmer, has been selling the contents of his water well for axle grease at 10 cents a gallon.
The advertisement of the peculiar property of the "water" led to an examination, and now it is believed a great oil field will be opened in Cuyahoga and Lorain counties.

NEEDLESS ALARM.

Here's a poor man coughing away his lungs—at least so his relatives think.
It's cough, cough, hack, hack, hack, all day and sometimes all night."Must be consumption," think the alarmed ones.
And of course, there is always a possibility that they may be right.
But in most cases, they're wrong, because Dyspepsia is so much more common than Consumption.And Dyspepsia causes chronic Cough, just like Consumption.
The dyspeptic cough, it is well to remember, can be quickly cured by Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.No need to be alarmed about it, unless you make up your mind to neglect it.Then, indeed, you must look out for danger; for the Dyspeptic Cough often grows into a Consumptive Cough if neglected, by the constant lung-irritation which it causes.So the best way is to waste no time, but begin at once the use of these famous little tablets; the timely use of which has saved many a sick person from ending in a consumptive grave.Remember, however, if you please, that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will positively NOT cure Consumption, but prevent it.Of course, they can always be dependent on to cure all the other symptoms of indigestion.
They are a universal cure for one universal disease.They cure nothing else; but what they do, they do thoroughly and well.
Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the result of the most thorough investigation into the inside causes and the cure of indigestion, that has ever been attempted.
They have solved a problem, the answer to which a hundred thousand physicians in America are today groping for in vain.They cure the most severe, long-continued chronic, complicated cases of indigestion that can be found.
They are far ahead of the most modern medical practice, because the most successful physicians of the day, in the cure of diseases of the digestive organs, are using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets as a basis for their success.They stoop to Stuart's to conquer.
And Stuart's lift them up, out of the rut.If, therefore, you are a victim of this dread disease, which counts its victims by the million. Brace up and take new heart, for you cannot fail to cure your trouble, if you will only put your faith in this great remedy, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.They are positively, frankly, truly

"Everything is impossible until we see a success." Your own business is probably bigger now than you thought "possible" before you became a shrewd (which means a "large") advertiser.

The insurgents are still alive and "doing".
Senator Depew is certainly reaping a whirlwind for his actions.
Numerous buildings for factory and business are proposed for Beloit.
All voters should remember there are three judges to be voted on election day.
This new fireless stove proposition sounds good in print to the gas and coal consumers.Having got into the habit France continues to have a socialistic member in its cabinets.
Pride in the county should keep the circuit judgeship in the hands of a Rock county man.
Education is making great strides. An Indian athlete is to put his speed against that of a locomotive.Local politicians can now count their pluralities in round numbers and the funny thing is they all have pluralities.
Governor Davidson is still busy making his plans for his campaign when he really decides if he is ready to be a candidate or not.France and Germany would probably appreciate it if the other powers would get mad and make them settle their dispute at once.
Tillman made his sentiments pretty plain in the senate yesterday afternoon and for once in his life upheld the views of the President.Mayor Dunne trusts that Mr. Dalrymple will now consider himself as a closed incident in the history of municipal ownership in Chicago.
Missouri may have lead and zinc fields galore but Wisconsin appears to have better. Wisconsin always was a pretty good state.It would appear as though the governor's personally conducted board of regents had sort of overstepped their authority once in a while.
The western miners have proven to the world that they can perform murders by the wholesale or retail just to suit the tastes of the people.Janesville is ready for a boom and with the Northwestern railroad doing all in its power to make the city an important station on its line it ought to wake up and take notice.
Portsmouth, N. H., wants the world to know that the climate at Algeciras is not conducive to good temperaments of the envoys of Germany and France and that New Hampshire climate is exceptionally good.The state Y. M. C. A. people have invaded Beloit this week and are holding high carnival amid the state buildings of the congregational college.
In accepting the resignation of Andy O'Dea, the Wisconsin crew coach, the athletic directors should also provide that he does not return again as he did once before.The House "insurgents" will vote for separate statehood or for the dropping of New Mexico and Arizona from the present consideration. They are republicans whichever way they vote.
Now it appears that the university board of regents consisting of one regent can order all the changes thought necessary without any consultation. So much for rule by commissions.Senator Tillman, pitchfork, eloquence and all-spouted his little five thousand word speech in the United States senate yesterday afternoon and was respectively heard from start to finish.
Edgerton and Stoughton are having a hot session over the smallpox scare in the Tobacco City. Edgerton people claim that Stoughton residents refuse to talk with them even over a telephone because they are afraid of infection.

The Kansas City Star takes a quiet shot at LaFollette and his trail-road speech and says his arguments were full of holes and he has lost more than he could gain in two years. But the Kansas people do not know "Bobby".

JUST A FACT.

There appears to be a mistaken idea that the home of the twelfth judicial circuit is in Janesville and that any judge elected to this court would have to reside here. There are court houses at Monroe and also at Jefferson and should the judge elected be from one of these two counties the open term of the court would be in his home city. When it is considered that ninety per cent of the business of this district is done in the Rock county court it would mean a serious loss to hotels, restaurants and other places of business as this business would go to Monroe or Jefferson. This point should be remembered by voters who favor an outside candidate. While it looks glittering on the face of it, it means money out of the pocket to the city and to the county if either of the other two counties become the residence seat of the judge.

WALL STREET AND THE COUNTRY

Although there has been a ten point drop in the business prosperity of the country, and that is a fact which it is well to keep clearly in mind. It is a mooted point how far the stock market influences business sentiment outside of Wall street. There have been times when it has done so in a marked degree. It has happened that a severe break in the stock market has served as a wet blanket upon the trade of the country, completely smothering all enthusiasm and confidence. At other times, however, the country has disregarded what Wall street was doing. It is the opinion of some shrewd bankers who look closely into matters that the west and south are no longer dependent as they once were upon Wall street's stock tape. A number of years ago before Secretary Shaw had entered public life he was on the point of investing a few thousand dollars in a business enterprise in Iowa when a break in the New York stock market occurred which so influenced the business opinion in the west that Mr. Shaw broke off the deal. It is safe to say that the recent decline in the stock market has not produced any similar effect anywhere in the country.

FINANCIERS AND NEWSPAPERS.

That is an extraordinary charge which has been made by the Chicago Chronicle against the other Chicago newspapers, says the Wall Street Journal. The charge is that they have conspired together to ruin John R. Walsh, to ruin him both in fortune and in reputation. The Chronicle's language is unequivocal. It speaks of the acts of the other Chicago newspapers as "journalistic scoundrelism".

The Chronicle is a paper of good reputation, and yet it is hard to believe the charge it makes against its contemporaries. It is impossible to conceive of journalistic depravity so great as to cause leading newspapers of a great city deliberately to attempt the ruin of the reputation and financial standing of a business man. Mr. Walsh's fate illustrates the folly of a financier owning or controlling a newspaper. For years Mr. Walsh has been in control of the Chronicle. It has been one of a number of enterprises. And yet it is fair to say that both the Chronicle and Mr. Walsh would have been stronger if there had not been this alliance between them. A newspaper is always weakened by control by any financial interest, however powerful, and in the long run no financier gains anything by controlling a newspaper. Jay Gould tried it without success, and the World, which was a failure under his ownership, became profitable and powerful only when it was severed from his control.

DOBSON SECURED 2 POINTS FOR LOCALS

But One Janesville Contestant Able to Take Place in Any Event at State Y. M. C. A. Meet.

From the results of the athletic and gymnastic meet, held in Beloit in connection with the State Y. M. C. A. convention last evening, it is just evident that Janesville was represented. That too, is entirely due to one man, Rollo Dobson, who carried off two points by securing third in the side horse exercise and third in the parallel bar work. The other contestants from here and who failed to gain honors were Frank Chase, Sterling Campbell, Doane Wright, Harvey Lee, Fred Jensen and Floyd Davis. The Milwaukee Railroad Y. M. C. A. team won the meet, scoring twenty-one points. Racine was second with thirteen points and Milwaukee Central third with eleven points. The summaries:

30-yard dash—Arthur Meyer, Milwaukee R. R., first; Martin Hueffner, Racine, second; Otto Hueffner, Racine, third. Time—3 1/5 seconds.
Twelve-pound shotput—Fred Hueffner, Racine, first; H. C. Whitman, Milwaukee R. R., second; Robert R. Mueller, Milwaukee Central, third. Distance—43 feet, 6 1/2 inches.
Pole vault—Springer, Milwaukee Central, first; W. Meyer, Milwaukee R. R., second; M. Hueffner, Racine, third. Height—10 feet, 4 inches.
High jump—Meyer, Milwaukee R. R., and Haase, Milwaukee Central, tied for first; W. Meyer, Milwaukee R. R., second. Height—5 feet, 3 in.

Mile relay—Milwaukee R. R., first; Racine, second; Milwaukee Central third.

In the basketball contest before the track meet Milwaukee Central won the state championship, defeating Oshkosh, 63 to 47. Tillman, Milwaukee, was the individual star, throwing eleven baskets.

Murphy the use of a special street car was donated for the transportation of the party and the large hampers of good things to eat which they carried. When the guests had taken possession of the home J. L. Bear was made master of ceremonies and J. F. Carle, in a graceful speech, presented the host with a handsome cane. The ladies of the Relief Corps tendered the host a large bouquet of pink and white carnations which was used as a centerpiece on the table where the large birthday cake, ornamented with 62 lighted candles, and the gift of Miss Maria Gibbs, was displayed. Mrs. Victoria Potter, president of the corps, gave a pleasing address and congratulatory speeches were also made by Mrs. S. L. James and Miss Gibbs. The evening proved a delightful one for all of the participants. Mr. Scott came to this country from Scotland when he was a small boy. Since he has been sexton at Oak Hill he laid to rest over 5,000 of his fellow men.

A GOOD RIDDANCE. O'ROURKE WILL

TO BE PROBATED

LAST TESTAMENT OF ROCK COUNTY MAN WHO DIED IN DENVER.

DISCREDIT WESTERN STORY

Judge of the Court in Denver Calls Facts a Miserable Story—Victory for Heirs.

Was Christopher O'Rourke, of Orfordville, an old man and wealthy, brought to Denver at the instigation of a certain James L. Smith, supposed to be a stone contractor of that city, and when brought there in a dying condition, wheeled into making a will in favor of Smith and his wife, cutting off the two children of the old man?

This case is of exceptional interest to Rock county residents who were friends of the late Christopher O'Rourke. Shortly after his death, J. J. Cunningham, went to Denver to ask the court that the alleged last will and testament of the deceased be brought to the Rock county court for probate. His efforts were fought by James L. Smith, who claimed the five thousand dollars deposited in the bank and the five thousand left himself and wife by the alleged will. Mr. Cunningham tied up the money in the bank so that Mr. Smith will not be able to touch it and R. C. Hecox, a former Janesville resident now practicing in Denver and a nephew of Judge Malone, has brought the case back to the Rock county court for final settlement. Mr. Hecox has been Mr. Cunningham's representative in Denver in this matter. This morning he received a telegram stating that the will had been sent under registered mail to the clerk of the probate court and will probably arrive today. In the neighborhood of fifteen thousand dollars is involved. In speaking of the matter the Denver Republican said:

The case dates back a year ago with the opening scene in Portland, Ore. The story is filled with pathetic incidents. Christopher O'Rourke had lived near Orfordville, Wis., for over 50 years. He was a prosperous farmer and had made a real estate out of which he had made a fortune. Eight or nine years ago O'Rourke left Wisconsin for Pensacola, Fla., for his health. He lived for six years in Pensacola and though his health did not improve, his business sagacity did not leave him and he acquired a large amount of property there. From Pensacola the aged farmer returned to his home in Wisconsin, remained there for a short while and then, his health again failing, set out for San Jose, Cal. He stayed there for a few months and managed to add to his fortune by real estate deals. California did not seem to agree with him and he went to Portland, Ore. From there the story is taken up by James Smith who, in his affidavit filed last fall in Judge McCall's division of the county court, tells a most remarkable tale.

O'Rourke in Oregon. According to the story which Smith tells he met O'Rourke in January, 1905. He claims to have been introduced to O'Rourke by a man named G. T. Anley, a mutual friend, in a restaurant on Burns street, Portland. He declares that he became well acquainted with O'Rourke. Smith begins in the first part of his affidavit to insist that O'Rourke almost immediately began to tell him of his business affairs, of his deals in Florida, of his lands in San Jose and of his life and work on Wisconsin farms. "Smith says he began to enter into business relations of an intimate character with O'Rourke," he declares that O'Rourke bought three lots in Portland and that he started to build houses on these lots. Smith affirms that he was placed in charge of the construction of these houses with orders to see that they were completed. This, Smith says, he did and he further claims that when the houses were completed O'Rourke was indebted to him for the work done on them. But Smith fails to mention what the sum was.

O'Rourke complained of asthma, Smith says, he told O'Rourke that the best remedy in the world for asthma was that of Denver. Then Smith left Portland for Casadero, Ore., where he says he received a letter from G. T. Anley telling him that O'Rourke was ill in St. Vincent's hospital, Portland, and wished to see Smith. The O'Rourke said to have told Smith that O'Rourke wished him to take complete charge of his business and bring him to Denver. Smith went to Portland.

There, according again to Smith's story, O'Rourke told him that he could not live and, says Smith, begged him, with tears running down his cheeks, to bring him to Denver. Smith left Portland with the old man on July 1, 1905. On the 14th of July O'Rourke was dead.

The Denver Will. On July 12 O'Rourke is alleged to have made a will before W. W. White, in the Kittredge building in which he left $4,000 to Mrs. James Smith, whom he had met just 10 days previously, and another $1,000 for a monument to be built and erected by James Smith. And yet, just 14 days before he left for Denver he made a will leaving all his property to his lawful heirs, Henry O'Rourke, his son, and Mary Neelon, his daughter, both of Orfordville, Wis.

Smith claims O'Rourke owed him $500 at the time of his death. On the day of his death, O'Rourke gave Smith a certificate of deposit for $5,000 in a Denver bank. Two days after O'Rourke's death Smith went to the bank and attempted to withdraw the money, but the bank had been notified and he could not get it. The last will of O'Rourke was then presented in Judge McCall's court for probate, but on the petition of the heirs Judge McCall decided that it should be returned to Rock county, Wisconsin. On a re-hearing Judge Dixon of Pueblo, who sat in the district court here last October, handed down the following opinion and scathing rebuke:

"In the matter of the estate of Christopher O'Rourke, which was heard yesterday, the facts as I believe them to be constitute a story so miserable that I can scarcely trust myself to speak of them. I am afraid if I undertake to express my opinion of the facts in this case that I should say something not in keeping with this place.

O'Rourke Dies. "It is sufficient to say that the circumstances attending the removal of this poor old man, who was brought half dying from a hospital at Portland, to Denver, to die, the existence of this alleged executor's deed and of a certain certificate of deposit for $5,000 are enough to destroy the confidence of the court in the showing made. If there was any necessity of stretching the law for the purpose of affirming the judgment of the court below in this case, I should be sorely tempted to stretch the law. But there is no necessity. It seems that he is a non-resident in the meaning of the statute, and I am perfectly satisfied he left no debts in this state. It is clear that it is within the discretion of the court to either admit this will to probate, or merely order it to be refiled and transmitted to the state of the home of the deceased. "The judgment of the court was proper and in accordance with every principle of justice. The judgment will be affirmed, and an order may be prepared which I will sign according to the judgment."

Yesterday Judge Ben Lindsey confirmed the findings of Judges McCall and Dixon and it now seems that the will will go to Wisconsin for probate.

INTERESTING LETTER

WRITTEN BY A NOTABLE WOMAN

Mrs. Sarah Kellogg, of Denver, Color. Bearer of the Woman's Relief Corps. Sends Thanks to Mrs. Pinkham.

The following letter was written by Mrs. Kellogg, of 1628 Lincoln Ave., Denver, Col., to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham: For five years I was troubled with a tumor, which kept growing, causing me intense agony and great mental depression. I was unable to attend to my house work and life became a burden to me. I was confined for days to my bed, lost my appetite, my courage and all hope. I could not bear to think of an operation, and in my distress I tried every remedy which I thought would be of any use to me, and reading of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to sick women decided to give it a trial. I felt so discouraged that I had little hope of recovery, and when I began to feel better, after the second week, thought it only meant temporary relief, but to my great surprise I found that I kept gaining, while the tumor lessened in size."

"The Compound continued to build up my general health and the tumor seemed to be absorbed, until, in seven months, the tumor was entirely gone and I a well woman. I am so thankful for my recovery that I ask you to publish my letter in newspapers, so other women may know of the wonderful curative powers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

When women are troubled with irregular or painful periods, weakness, displacement or ulceration of the female organs, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation, backache, flatulence, general debility, indigestion or nervous prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

No other medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female ills.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She is daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years under her direction and since her decease has been advising sick women free of charge. She has aided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Remember that it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that is curing women, and don't allow any druggist to sell you anything else in its place.

— FORTY YEARS AGO —

Janesville Daily Gazette, Friday, March 16, 1866.—The weather March is asserting its prerogatives as a boisterous month, and last night and today it is doing its very worst. In fact it is having a regular blow out. Let her blow.

Water Witch Festival.—The festival of Water Witch Engine Co. No. 2 at the Court Room, last night, was a very pleasant affair indeed, and reflected credit on the boys. The number present was not quite as large as anticipated.

Rock River Improvement Convention.—The delegate convention at Beloit, on the 15th and 16th, to devise a plan for the improvement of Rock river, was well attended by delegates from counties bordering on the river. The subject in hand was thoroughly discussed and it was decided to take measures to institute a survey and obtain estimates of the cost of the work. A committee consisting of one from each county, was appointed to carry out this feature of the work.

A Naples letter, writer says that several Catholic priests have declared their intentions of marriage, under the new law which makes marriage a civil rite, and that one has already been united to a lady of Naples. The writer thinks this example will be somewhat extensively followed.

Death of a Rock County Boy.—G. B. Daily, son of H. B. Daily, Esq., of Afton, Rock county, was accidentally drowned on the 25th of January last, at Oregon City, Oregon. The deceased was in the employ of the Willmette River Transportation Company of that place, and at the time of the accident was engaged in superintending the removal of drift wood which had accumulated in the company's "basin" or "feeder." He, in company with two others, were in a small pleasure boat which upset, precipitating upon his strength and expertness as a swimmer, he struck out for the shore, but the current being too swift for him, he was carried over the Willmette Falls and sucked under the ice. Young Daily was a member of the 12th Wisconsin Battery—one of Lieut. Cheney's recruits—and a brave, faithful soldier. He was one of the number wounded at Altoona while in the discharge of his duty, a minie ball penetrating the back of his head and lodging in his neck. He had but a few weeks previous reached the occidental coast, but had already won the esteem and admiration of his employers, one of whom writes his bereaved parents that no time or money shall be spared to recover the body.

FOOTLIGHT FLASHES

"Zira," the play chosen by the Messrs. Shubert and Henry Miller for the present season's tour of Margaret Anglin, has the best New York record of all the straight dramatic productions of the season. It ran two hundred nights at the fashionable Princess Theatre, and was praised by the skies by the entire Gotham press. The story of the piece emanates from the same source as "The New Magdalen" by Wilkie Collins. Henry Miller, the distinguished romantic actor, and J. Hartley Manners, wrote "Zira" for Anglin. Mr. Miller selected his players and produced the drama. It was the interpretation of the title role that Anglin was reviewed by the New York critics as "the queen of emotional actresses—the Bernhardt of America." "Zira" will be presented in this city at the Myers Grand Friday, March 23, by the original Broadway cast and all the scenery and general stage effects that made it so popular with the New York audiences.

HESPER

...BY...
HAMLIN GARLAND

COPYRIGHT, 1905, BY HAMLIN GARLAND

His resentment, long smoldering, burst forth: "Yes, I would! Don't you suppose I have seen how you treated him? You think because you're from New York you can snub a man like Rob, but you're not up to him. You're not half as good as he is."

Ann listened in astonishment to this outburst from her brother and then cuttingly remarked:

"One would think I had taken away some playing of yours. Go out of my room and stay out till you can treat me with respect."

"I'm going, and you'll never see me again. I'm going to follow Rob. I don't care what you say." With this defiant cry he rushed from the room.

A keen ache of jealousy ran through the proud girl's heart. The one soul of vital interest in her life, her sweet little brother, seemed about to pass from her hands to that of an adventurer. Her resentment of his influence, blazed forth within her. "I will defeat him with his own weapons," she said. "I will win him back to me. I will go wherever he wishes to go."

But Louis did not return to lunch, and she was greatly troubled. He did not appear at dinner, and at last, openly alarmed, Ann told Mrs. Barnett of Louis' bitter accusation, and of his threat that he would never return.

"Don't worry," Don said. "I will find him. He'll get tired of it and come back. These boyish tantrums don't last."

"It scares me to think of that poor, innocent lad spending the night alone in a big, wicked western city. I wish Don would hurry home. Can't I go down to his office?"

"Oh, no; there's no need of your going. I'll telephone him at once."

When Barnett returned, Ann, white with anxiety, poured out her story. He comforted her by saying: "You take it too seriously. I will notify the police at Cincinnati and Mogayon. They'll locate him in an hour."

"They did not find him," and Ann passed a miserable night, imagining all sorts of ill adventures into which Louis might be led, and would have accompanied Barnett on his quest next day but for his firm command: "Don't be absurd. I can find him alone much quicker."

"Bring him back if you have to use force," she cried. "And then, with a knowledge of Raymond's power, she added: 'If you find Mr. Raymond please tell him to send Liddle home. Say I wish it.'"

With these words in his ear Barnett took his way to his office. At lunch he was more concerned. "He's not in Cincinnati nor any of the surrounding towns. He may have gone back to the ranch. I will wire out there this afternoon. Did he have any money?"

"Yes," he had just given him his allowance. He must have had nearly $200."

Don whistled. "A smart boy can hide out a good while on that. However, he'll come back when his pet wears off."

Even though Raymond had taken himself bodily out of her life, his power to disturb and thwart Ann's will remained. She began to fear him.

"You're not half as good as he is."

A little. He was bigger, more powerful, than she had thought him. Could she have found him in the days which followed days of increasing unrest and anxiety—she would have humbly asked him to find the runaway and bring him back to her, but he had disappeared as utterly as if he had never been.

CHAPTER IX.
MEANWHILE, during Raymond's days on the ranch, while the cattle were withering away on the plains and the long trail from the south was filling with grass, a most notable settlement had been forming like some new kind of parasite growth on the westward shoulder of old Mogayon, the mighty peak to the west.

In the midst of the mountains, in the lap of two smooth, grassy domes, old Philip Le Beau established a cow camp in the early seventies and called it Belle Marie, after his wife. This, however, proved to be too common a his cowboy neighbors, who promptly called it "Le Beau's Hole," and in the end it was known among cattlemen as Bozle Creek.

Just west of Le Beau's camp, and sentinel to the valley of the Loup, stood a symmetrical peak which some missionaries to the red people had called Mount Horeb. About the year 1870 some persons not missionaries planted gold in the soil in convenient places at the base of this hill and raised a mighty shout over the discovery of a new El Dorado. A rush took place, and to the outside world the region became known as "the Mount Horeb mining district," and was alluded to with deep seated resentment with curses.

But there were miners whom neither the dogmatic opinions of geologists nor the tricks of schemers could turn aside from a faith that somewhere on the mighty slopes of Mogayon lay veins of gold, and these continued to chip and to dig and to hammer.

Valley Springs was becoming known as a pleasant health resort, and the waters of its springs were being bottled and shipped to the eastern cities. Each year a larger number of stricken ones came to find respite, if not recovery, in its gloriously bright sunlight and pure air. For years it remained a village and its business merely shopkeepers and resident ranch owners, but as its fame spread families of wealth and social position in the east began to settle along the bank of the Bear, and to build homes into which the sunlight streamed with healing magic, and the men of these families began to look about for business and for investment, and not a few of them were in the mood to listen when rough bearded men began to plod down the trail from Bozle Creek bringing sacks of promise-lugore.

Returns from these samples, sent away to be assayed, started a flight of golden eagles east and west. Again the adventurous youth, the skilled prospector, the gambler and all the uneasy and shifting elements that follow such lure poured into the valley and tolled over the trail to the grassy hills of Bozle.

At first, though short of breath by reason of the altitude, two full miles above the sea, some of these newcomers laughed and some were angry. "Gold! In these grassy hills? Impossible!" And they went away again with bitter words. It was Mount Horeb repeated on a large scale.

But the assayers, the men of learning, persisted and in their little mortars bruised the ore and in tiny portable furnaces smelted for many a sturdy miner minute buttons of shining metal. The gold was there, and at last even the most skeptical believed. Then the inflow began in earnest. The trail was beaten smooth by swarming feet. It became a stage road. A great railroad sent surveyors tolling up each of the deep and winding canyons in the attempt to reach the mighty camp whose fame was beginning to shine throughout the world. The beautiful grassy hills were blotched with eruptions of red earth. Paths appeared leading from burrow to burrow like runways in a town of purple dogs.

The main street of Bozle was 10,000 feet above the sea, but at last, on the top of Pine mountain, a vein of ore running $2,000 to the ton was discovered, and another town arose—full 11,000 feet above sea level—the highest town in all America, and this became at once celebrated above all others and was called Skytown.

In the end Skytown dominated the whole camp and gave name to it. Bozle, Grass Mountain, Pine Gulch, Hoffman, all were subordinate in fame as they were topographically, and the press alluded to the region as the Skytown mining district.

In those days the barroom of the Mountain House in Bozle was the central stock exchange of the whole camp. It was a room of an evening with business men from Denver, Kansas City, Chicago, Salt Lake City, San Francisco and New York. Every great newspaper had its representative there, alert and indefatigable, seeking the latest word of strikes and sales.

At the time when Raymond entered it Skytown was the busiest, most vital and in some ways the most picturesque mining district in the world. It was at its height as a poor man's camp. New territory was being opened up each day. Each evening brought stories of strikes—scores of them.

The streets of Bozle were graceless and grassless, but Valley Springs was a bower of trees and growing vines. The houses of the peak were tents, slab shacks and cabins of aspen poles, and remained so, while splendid stone palaces had already appeared in the valley, and every comfort and nearly every luxury of the east was obtainable, almost common.

Skytown was the cupola of Sky camp. It surveyed the whole field, dominated only by the glittering crest of Mogayon, which rose nearly 4,000 feet higher into the thin and fleecy air. Bozle and Hoffman and Indian Creek and Bureka and a half dozen other villages lay below.

This was the town, the camp, toward which Raymond had been gazing in longing and irresolution for two years and to which he directed his steps as soon as he was able to walk with something of his old time vigor.

MINERS PLAN TO AVOID TROUBLE

Will Offer to Arbitrate Differences With Anthracite Operators.

MITCHELL IS STILL HOPEFUL

Leader's Speech in Opening Convention Is Conservative, Expressing Belief that Employers Will Realize Necessity of Making Concessions.

Indianapolis, March 16.—Arbitration, as a last resort to avoid a strike in the anthracite coal fields April 1, will be offered by the United Mine Workers of America. That is the opinion of some of President Mitchell's closest advisers here, although no definite action on the matter has yet been taken. In what purported to be a final answer to the demands made by the anthracite miners the operators expressed the hope that the commission appointed by President Roosevelt, and which ended the last strike, would remain in existence. The plan of the miners, it is said, is to accept the suggestion of the operators to retain the commission and to submit modified demands, with the request that if they are not conceded by the operators the entire matter shall be submitted to arbitration by the commission.

Judge Gray, of Delaware, is at the head of that commission, and it is said that any decision he might give would be satisfactory to the miners. The officials of the United Mine Workers also believe that by adopting such a course they would score an advantage by throwing the responsibility for a strike, should one be ordered, on the operators.

President Mitchell admits that he has not abandoned hope of bringing about an amicable settlement in the anthracite fields, although the situation at present looks rather gloomy.

The idea that an interstate agreement covering the central competitive field in the bituminous regions will be reached seems to be gaining strength among the delegates. In his address following the opening of the convention Thursday morning, President Mitchell advocated conservatism. His whole speech to the delegates was conciliatory in tone, and he said, speaking of the bituminous operators: "I am convinced that the urgency and seriousness of the situation will prompt them to make such reasonable concessions in the matter of wages and conditions as will enable us to join them in the rehabilitation of our joint movement and the perpetuation of the practical business relationship under which we have worked with mutual advantage during the past eight years. To this end I feel it incumbent on me to say that a very large degree of responsibility will rest upon us if these proposed negotiations fail to lead to success."

While the scale committee appointed in the convention has not yet taken up the question of wages, it is believed that recommendations will be urged valuing the demands for 12 1/2 per cent increase made at the last convention and substituting the rate paid previous to April, 1904, when a reduction of 5.55 per cent was accepted by the miners.

Dolan Is Turned Down.
The international executive board approved the finding of President Mitchell in the matter of ousting Patrick Dolan from the presidency of district No. 5, western Pennsylvania. The report of the board will confirm the ousting of Dolan by the convention of district No. 5, and the appointment of three members of the executive board to take charge of the district affairs until the office is filled by special election. The vote, which was unanimous, came after a heated session lasting three hours. Dolan now plans to take the matter into the courts.

Dolan made no attempt during the day to secure a seat in the convention. No credentials were presented for him, and when the delegates found that his name was omitted from the list they cheered for several minutes. Many are in favor of expelling Dolan from the organization.

POLITICAL CAPITAL

Battle in Philippines Is Scored by Senator and Representative.

Washington, March 16.—It was indicated plainly in both houses Thursday that the democrats are hoping to make some political capital out of the battle between the American troops and the savage Moro band on Mount Dajo, in which the Moros were exterminated. The president submitted to congress the correspondence containing the detailed report from General Wood and his vindication of the American troops. Senator Bacon declared it looked as if there had been an inexcusable slaughter, and his words brought Senator Lodge to the defense. The latter declared it would be time to talk about massacre and slaughter when the official reports had been received, but he did not believe they would justify the charges.

In the house Mr. Jones of Virginia declared the action of the commanding general in the Philippines could not be condoned nor excused. The democrats apparently intend to attack General Wood as the personal friend of the president and at the same time again utilize the Philippines to criticize the administration.

CANNON WINS POINT.

Republicans Vote to Send 'Statehood Bill' Back to Conference.

Washington, March 16.—Speaker Cannon Thursday won the first engagement in the statehood fight with the senate. By a vote of 173 to 43, nearly three to one, the republican members of the house in conference adopted a resolution offered by Mr. Hamilton of Michigan, chairman of the territories committee, to send the bill to conference. The counter proposition from the insurgents offered by Mr. Mondell of Wyoming also provided for a conference, but added that the house should insist upon an amendment similar to that offered in the senate by Mr. Foraker, permitting the citizens of Arizona and New Mexico to determine for themselves at elections separately held whether the two territories should come into the union as one state. This concession by the insurgents was for the purpose of strengthening their position. Originally they sought such a bill as the senate passed. Realizing that they did not command sufficient strength to force through the house with the assistance of the democrats a bill providing for the admission of Oklahoma and Indian territories, they decided to take up the Foraker proposition, which in both houses commands more republican votes than the amendment of Senator Burrows of Michigan, striking from the bill all reference to Arizona and New Mexico. The conference was not stormy. The question whether the republican members of the house had assembled in conference or in caucus was more discussed than the statehood bill, and was much more interesting to those present. In this connection Adam Bede declared the proceeding was a "corpus," at any rate that was what was being tried.

PROTECTS INDIANS.

President Insists Their Rights Must Be Taken Care Of.

Washington, March 16.—President Roosevelt, it is understood, has called the republican members of the senate and house on the bill relating to the five civilized tribes of Indians to the White House and informed them that unless certain amendments are agreed to he will veto the measure. This is the bill which aroused much excitement in the senate, owing to the provision originally made for the disposal of the coal lands belonging to the Indians. As finally passed by the senate the bill removed the restriction under which those living in tribal state who are only partly of Indian blood may dispose of their farm lands. Full-bloods cannot dispose of lands without leave of the secretary of the interior. The president insisted that the mixed-bloods also should be protected. It has been learned that lobbyists for speculators had riders ready in Indian Territory to rush in and get the lands from the Indians as soon as the bill could be given to them that the bill had been passed.

Middleb, Hold Down Records.
Washington, March 16.—Midshipmen at Annapolis have been conspiring to prevent a high standard of scholarship, according to the statement of Secretary Bonaparte before the house committee on naval affairs. Brillancy has been discouraged and a sort of trade union agreement to hold all midshipmen on a dead level, so far as class records are concerned, has been in existence, he declared. There has been a tendency to place the men who barely passed on a plane with those having higher records, and anything like superior achievement has been discouraged. The secretary said a recent order for the graduation in September of members of the senior class who have good averages and holding the others until six months later already had affected the combination.

Detroit River Traffic.
Washington, March 16.—The department of commerce and labor has issued a statement saying the domestic freight traffic of the Detroit river for the first time has been fully measured, and for the season of 1905 shows a total of 53,639,088 net tons, of which 28,901,085 tons was southbound, and the remainder northbound. This huge southbound total is largely due to the enormous movement of iron ore. The freight traffic through the canals at Sault Ste. Marie, during the same period aggregated 44,270,680 net tons, of which 36,778,738 was southbound. The total freight movement through the United States canal amounted to 38,802,190 tons, while that through the Canadian canal totaled 5,468,490 tons.

TAYLOR & LOWELL FACTORY IS SOLD

To Peter Hohenadel and G. E. Stocking—Machinery Will Be Removed to Rochelle, Illinois, at Once

Last night the Taylor & Lowell gas engine and woven wire manufactory on North River street passed into the hands of Peter Hohenadel, Jr., and George E. Stocking, president of the Stocking National bank at Rochelle, Ill., and without the ceremony of offering the citizens of Janesville an opportunity to keep the concern here, the machinery will be moved at once to the Illinois city. The machinery inventories at $27,000. The figure at which it was sold is not named. E. W. Lowell, who has been the sole owner for two months past, says that when he discovered that local investors were too busy with mining propositions to be interested in any plan to enlarge the scope of the concern, he decided to sell it and had several good offers from Texas under consideration when the deal was closed with the Rochelle men last evening. M. D. Taylor has signed a contract to act as superintendent of the shops in the new location for a period of years. It will be installed in a building to be erected near the Hohenadel cannery factory in Rochelle. The local factory building which is a one-story structure 64x64 feet, erected last year, was not included in the sale. Fifteen skilled workmen have been employed regularly during the operations here.

WON A FIRST PRIZE AT MILWAUKEE SHOW

William Buchanan's Pomeranian Carries Off General Honors and Class Prize.

William Buchanan's Pomeranian dog carried off the first prize of any dog in its class at the Milwaukee dog show and also won the silver cup offered for the best dog of any class exhibited in the whole show. It is double honors for both Mr. Buchanan and Janesville, as the Pomeranians are a rare species of dog as yet in the United States and the exhibit at the Milwaukee Bench Show is probably the largest ever shown in this country. Mr. Buchanan received his dog, a female, from a friend in England and in the last week in January three little puppies joined her. The puppies while only six weeks old are valued at a hundred dollars apiece and will be kept by Mr. Buchanan as a nucleus of kennels for this breed of dog. The species originated in a province of Austria and has been gradually imported into England, where they are now the most fashionable dog. In winning the first prize in the Pomeranian class at the sweepstakes cup for the best dog exhibited Janesville receives double honors. Manager Peter Myers did not take his bull terrier "Pat" to the show as was announced yesterday. It is not known that any other Janesville dogs were on exhibition in Milwaukee.
